

Russian Army Paper Urges Youth of World to Fight Against Capitalistic War

Newspaper Pravda Reports Song 'Yanks Not Coming' Is Sweeping Nation and Cites Own Position
Finland Attacked
Press Declares Neighbors Are Continuing Their War Preparations

Moscow, Nov. 20 (AP)—The newspaper Red Star, organ of the Soviet Russian army, urged the youth of the world today to oppose continuation of the present "capitalistic war," under the leadership of the Communist International.

In a special article, the Red Star asserted students of the United States, Great Britain, France and India are strongly against war. The newspaper said that while "the Soviet is in a strong position, capitalism is falling into ruins."

The tenor of the article was echoed in a New York dispatch to the Communist party newspaper Pravda, which said anti-war sentiment is growing in the United States.

"The song, 'The Yanks are Not Coming,' is sweeping the country," Pravda said.

These threats, accompanied by continued press attacks on Finland for "increasing preparations for war," came as official Russian sources reported progress in negotiations to improve relations with Japan.

Announces Agreement
Tass, official Soviet news agency, announced agreement had been reached on "the composition and functions" of a mixed commission to establish a boundary between Sovietized Outer Mongolia and Japanese-protected Manchukuo.

The commission, which will attempt to settle frontier problems, left unsolved when the two countries concluded a truce September 16 after more than four months of border fighting, will meet soon at Chita, Siberia, Tass said.

At the same time, Tass reported Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and Japanese Ambassador Shigenori Togo had found "a community of views" after "exchanging opinions" upon which a Soviet-Japanese trade agreement must be based.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, meanwhile, said in a dispatch from Helsinki "Finnish troops are marching everywhere on the eastern frontier" which Finland has refused to revise in accord with Soviet demands.

"There are nightly blackouts," Pravda said, "but on the Soviet side everything is normal."

Finnish military and "ruling classes," Pravda added, are "increasing preparations for war" against the desires of the masses.

Advices from Finland reported signs of relaxing tension along the Soviet-Finnish frontier.

The universities of Helsinki and Turku planned to reopen later this week, while some long-darkened restaurants resumed operation.

Says Plans Stolen
Detroit, Nov. 20 (AP)—Rep. Martin Dies (Dem., Texas), chairman of the congressional committee investigating subversive and un-American activities, said in an interview here today that Nazi and communist agents "now across the ocean" had stolen important information from military plants. Dies was here for a one-day secret conference about such matters. The primary purpose of his committee, he asserted, was to break up foreign spying and to prevent sabotage in industrial plants.

Farmers Will Get Highest October Checks for Milk

Estimate for Roundout Area Is $2.33; Differential Raises Basic Figure to Good Point

An estimated price of about $2.33 a hundredweight, which is expected to be paid producers of the Roundout Valley for October milk, will be the highest in several years for that month, it was learned today.

A transportation differential gained with federal assistance through efforts of area farmers, added to the basic price for last month's milk and is expected to bring the price to this satisfactory figure.

In Delaware county, where the farmers are not paid this differential, E. M. Harmon, area administrator of the federal-state order, announced last Tuesday a uniform price of $2.27 a hundredweight for 3.5 per cent butter fat content milk received from producers during October.

This price is reported as 48 cents higher in Delaware county than that paid for September milk and 18½ cents higher than the combined order and agreed-upon premiums for September.

Factors reported responsible for the increase, which in the Delaware county area is said to be the highest for October milk since 1930 are: An increase of 22 cents per hundred on class 1 price through an amendment to the marketing order; an estimated 58 per cent of the total milk reported used in class 1 for October as compared to 57 per cent used in class 1 for September.

It was reported also that the uniform producer price for October includes about three cents a hundredweight of milk, representing funds collected from handlers on past due accounts. In September there was only an estimated half cent more to add for the hundredweight.

Checks for milk shipped by Roundout Valley producers are not due until November 23 or 24 it was announced today but the farmers express themselves as generally satisfied with the prospects of one of the highest October prices in several years.

Archie Wright, chairman of the Up-State Dairy Farmers' Union, was reported to have expressed satisfaction at the boost in price. It was Mr. Wright's opinion, however, that diversion of milk from the Sheffield and Dairyman's League plants will continue in protest of the price paid for September milk.

The protest against the two large dealer concerns began last month following announcement that the price for September milk was seven or eight cents a hundredweight below the price of $2.15 expected by the farmers following settlement of last August's strike.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York, who was a major factor in bringing about settlement of the August strike declared recently: "We will see now if this is just another sop or if they (the dealers) will keep faith with the farmers."

No Neutrality Talks
Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt was reported authoritatively today to have abandoned his plan to consult with congressional leaders on any neutrality problems arising before the 1940 session. One of the leaders, asking that his name be withheld, told reporters he understood Mr. Roosevelt had decided that day-to-day decisions on foreign policy properly should be made by the executive branch.

Green Asks Neutral Public to Place Blame for Feud Where It Belongs

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—Amid persistent talk of a new administration effort to bring the AFL and the CIO together, President William Green of the AFL has asked the neutral public to place the responsibility for labor's internal feud "where it belongs."

"We believe that an attitude of neutrality toward the disputants in this case who profess to be anxious for labor peace merely serves to shelter and protect the side which is to blame," Green said in a statement last night. "Therefore, such an attitude hinders the attainment of peace."

Shoots Slayer

Thirteen-year-old Pasquale Addante (above) picked up the pistol dropped by his slain father and pumped three bullets into the body of a negro robber who raided the Addante store in Chicago. The wounded negro turned up at a hospital a few minutes later but escaped again before being treated. Pasquale's father was slain when he surprised the robber and engaged him in a gun battle across the counter.

Former Kaiser Has Narrow Escape as Wind Levels Trees

Doorn, The Netherlands, Nov. 20 (AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany had a narrow escape today when a sudden windstorm uprooted three large trees in the garden of Doorn Castle.

The 80-year-old former Kaiser, walking with an official of his court, was only 50 yards from where the trees fell, having just passed the spot.

He returned to the castle in a highly nervous state.

The storm caused damage to small Netherlands shipping yesterday. Seven seamen lost their lives. The Kaiser sent a message of condolence to Queen Wilhelmina over the sinking of The Netherlands liner Simon Bolivar Saturday off the British coast.

Treaty Expiration May Mean Embargo On Goods for Japan

Tokyo Will Have to Make Overtures to Washington Toward Negotiating New Pact

Resolution Stands

Raw Materials Ban Asked by Senators Pittman and Schwelienbach

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The sands are running fast on the Japanese-American commercial treaty, and it is reliably predicted that when the treaty expires January 26, no new one will have been negotiated.

The way then will be open for congressional action on the resolutions by Senators Pittman (D., Nev.) and Schwelienbach (D., Wash.) to impose an embargo on the shipment of raw materials to Japan. There has been no indication whether a majority of the Senate and House would favor this proposal.

Any move toward opening negotiations for a new commercial treaty, Washington officials say privately, will have to come from Tokyo. No preliminary talks on the subject have taken place in either capital.

It is freely granted here that the treaty was abrogated by Secretary Hull not for commercial but for political reasons. The political reasons still exist, in the view of American diplomats.

Japan is still in China, American interests there are still being affected, Japan has not yet replied to the comprehensive state department note of last December 31 rejecting the Japanese conception of a "new order" in East Asia.

Competent students of far eastern affairs believe Japan would like to reach a "modus vivendi" with the United States, a temporary gentlemen's agreement, when negotiations for a new American commercial treaty to replace one nearly 70 years old struck a snag over signing the document in the name of Vittorio Emanuele, king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia. That might have implied American recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

Several methods have been outlined recently in official quarters to bring economic pressure to bear upon Japan without laying the United States open to the charge of discrimination.

One was an annual quota on the shipment of scrap iron and steel, on the basis of the average over a certain period. This would apply to all nations, but since Japan's purchases here have been extensive only in the last few years, it would tend to reduce drastically the amount she could buy in the United States.

Another suggestion was a general ban on the importation of silk. This, too, would apply to all nations, but would affect Japan primarily.

Three Chimney Fires

Three chimney fires kept the fire department busy Sunday answering still alarms. The first was that morning at 2 o'clock for a fire at 65 Murray street in the house occupied by Lillian DeWitt. The second was at 10 o'clock that evening for a chimney fire in the house of Raymond Amell at 141 Greenkill avenue, and the third at 11:38 o'clock that evening at 155 Abel street in the house occupied by Mrs. Alice Banks. There was no damage by fire.

Court Upholds NLRB

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals ruled today that it was an unfair labor practice for minor supervisory employees to aid the union preferred by the company. It upheld the Labor Relations Board, which had declined to sanction an AFL machinists' contract on the grounds that the employer, through minor supervisory employees, assisted in organizing tool-room workers. The employer was the Serrick Corporation of Ohio, at Muncie, Ind.

Two-Gun Woman At Dallas Shoots Ice-Pick Attacker

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 20 (AP)—A woman armed with two guns shot down Brooks Coffman, 39, an attorney, on Main street today. He died a half hour later.

Miss Corrine Maddox, 26, whom Coffman was charged with stabbing with an ice pick last May, surrendered to police soon after the shooting.

"I have just shot Brooks Coffman," Assistant District Attorney Jimmy Martin said she told him.

Coffman was under a charge of assault to murder for the ice-pick stabbing of Miss Maddox. Miss Maddox, found wounded at a gravel pit near Irving, Tex., recovered after several weeks in a hospital.

Tells of Shooting

George Lawton, telephone company representative, told newspapermen he was sitting in a Main street office when he saw a woman shooting at Coffman. She had a revolver and an automatic pistol.

"She stood over him, about five feet away, firing into him," Lawton said. "He was trying to hold himself up with one hand and hollering and pleading for mercy."

After the stabbing, Coffman appeared at police headquarters and announced "I have killed a woman." Passersby had found Miss Maddox at a gravel pit near Irving. She told officers she was stabbed after she refused to accompany Coffman to California.

The assault to murder case against Coffman was set for trial October 9, but was passed by the state because of the inability of Miss Maddox to appear.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—On the verge of collapse, Lionel B. Grant, accused of slaying his former roommate, Ernest Uhlig, of Oneonta, pleaded innocent today when arraigned on a charge of second degree murder before County Judge Frank P. Malpass.

Uhlig was killed by adhesive tape being placed so as to cut off his breathing in a furnished room in the Dorset apartment, 161 East Onondaga street, early on Saturday, November 11. The body in a trunk, was removed to an attic in a Bellevue avenue house where Grant had a room. It was discovered there and Grant arrested on Tuesday.

Bronxville Issues First State License for Bikes

Bronxville, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—Determined to make cycling safe for the children in this village, Bronxville officials yesterday put into effect legislation that is expected to set a precedent for other communities throughout the state by issuing the first bicycle license in New York state.

The first license was presented by Mayor Frederick L. Devereux to Frank Cooley, high school junior, and founder of the Bronxville High School Bicycle Club.

Realizing that it is inadvisable to attempt to enforce police legislation against children of grammar and high school age, the village officials have evolved a method of enforcing the regulations enacted that is unique in police procedure and is the feature of the "safe-bicycling" crusade.

A "postal-card summons" is the chief and novel law enforcement weapon adopted to regulate bicycle traffic. The "summons" is not issued to the child operating the bicycle but to the parent so that the whole plan, in theory, depends upon the willingness of parents to cooperate with village officials.

Three-Way Probe Of Blast Begins

Bayonne Police, Standard Oil and U. S. Agents Would Find Cause

Bayonne, N. J., Nov. 20 (AP)—A three-way investigation of a terrific explosion that rent the deck of the Standard Oil Company's 11,147-ton S. S. J. A. Mowinckel was under way today.

Bayonne police, the Marine Department of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation sought to determine cause of the blast that could be heard for miles around yesterday.

The Mowinckel, which docked Wednesday with 109,000 barrels of oil from Venezuela is operated by the Panama Transport Company.

Date for County Fair Is Chosen

Agriculturists to Hold Day at Forsyth Park on August 23

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Ulster County Agricultural Society on Saturday the date for the annual county fair was fixed for Wednesday, August 23, 1940, in Forsyth Park.

Today Secretary E. W. Hathaway of the association was busy mailing out some 500 checks totaling $3,000 to the prize winners at the 1939 annual fair.

After discussing the annual fair the directors decided to again hold a one-day fair along similar lines to the fairs that have been held in recent years in Forsyth Park.

This year's fair was said to be one of the most successful one-day fairs ever held by the association.

Prague Workers Return to Jobs With Promise Complaints Will Be Studied

Prague, Nov. 20 (AP)—Prague workers, ignoring agitation for a strike to protest conditions under the rule of Nazi Germany, went to their jobs as usual today with the assurance their complaints would receive early consideration.

Anxious to avoid further disturbances following recent arrests and executions of Czech student leaders and others, the protectorate government appealed to the workers to refrain from striking.

The appeal also was accompanied by a promise that protests occasioned by rising prices and other grievances would be studied.

Czech police also spread a warning through workers' district in Prague and four other industrial centers that any strikes today in sympathy for executed patriots would be suppressed sternly.

This action was taken in districts already under martial law, despite assurances from labor leaders to German officials that they had persuaded their followers against a sympathy movement.

The former Czechoslovak capital was reported generally quiet yesterday after two days in which

Germany Denies Charge of Great Britain as to Who Placed Mines in Neutral Lanes

Front Is Quiet

Minor Patrol and Scouting Skirmishes Mark Only Activities

(By The Associated Press)

Mines exacted a heavy toll from the merchant shipping of warring and neutral nations during the week-end devoid of military developments.

Nine ships were sunk, six of them off the eastern coast of England. Heaviest loss of life was on the Netherlands liner Simon Bolivar, which sank Saturday while bound from Amsterdam to the West Indies. Authorities said about 140 were lost.

Of the five other ships which sank near England two were British, one Italian, one Swedish and one Yugoslav. A Lithuanian freighter sank near Rotterdam.

A British trawler sank in the North Sea. Sinking of the British freighter Pensilva also was disclosed today.

Anti-aircraft batteries, meanwhile, fired on an unidentified plane which reached the outskirts of London. France reported German planes had made widespread scouting flights over French territory.

Denies Charge
Britain charged Germany with laying mines near commercial shipping lanes used by neutral powers, but Germany denied the mines could have been German.

There was a possibility that the mines had been torn loose from their moorings by heavy weather and had drifted into the shipping lanes.

Summing up sea warfare of the past month, a French communiqué declared German shipping captured by several thousands of tons (the tonnage which France has lost to Germany).

The western front remained quiet as it has during weeks of only minor patrol and scouting skirmishes.

Reviewing the virtually dormant war on the western front, the German high command's communiqué today reported "no special events."

Apparently the "lively machine-gun and rifle fire on both sides," reported in yesterday's communiqué, spent itself without follow-up action. That communiqué also took note of "localized artillery activity" elsewhere on the front.

(A dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, said flood waters of the Rhine had driven French and German soldiers from their riverfront pillboxes at the southern extremity of their lines.)

(Of aerial activity, a dispatch from the Hague told of an exchange of fire between a trespassing German plane, over the island of Schiermonnikoof, and one of a flight of Netherlands' pursuit planes. Apparently neither plane was struck.)

Nine Die in Wreck
A collision between a Berlin-Kiel express and a local train just outside Berlin, at Spandau, yesterday resulted in nine deaths and injury of 20 persons. Cause of the accident was not announced, except that the express struck the local as it crossed the main track.

It was the second major railway wreck within a week. Forty-three persons were killed and 60 injured last Monday in an accident in Silesia.

Though the European war progressed slowly, a Japanese campaign on the South China coast added a new element to the Far Eastern war where Japan was trying to cut Chinese supply routes from French Indo-China and Burma.

Chinese reports said that 10,000 Japanese already had landed in western Kwangtung Province and that more reinforcements were being brought up hourly for an inland drive.

Thieves Enter Matthews' Warehouse at Hudson

Some time Saturday night or early Sunday morning, thieves apparently using a truck, broke into the warehouses along the river front in Hudson of the F. B. Matthews & Company, this city, and P. E. Engel, Hudson feed merchant, and stole a quantity of goods.

At the Kingston office of the Matthews Company it was stated that a checkup showed that the thieves had gotten away with merchandise to the value of between $50 and $60.

Trace Unknown Indians in U. S.

Expedition Finds Evidence Of Race That Lived Here Till 500 B. C.

CHICAGO.—Evidence has at last been found of a race of inhabitants of the southwestern United States about whom there has heretofore been no record during a period of some 1,500 years, according to a report just received from Dr. Paul S. Martin, leader of the Field Museum Archeological expedition to the Southwest.

These Indians came to America some time between 40,000 and 10,000 years ago and lived here till at least 500 B. C. Then, to the puzzlement of archeologists who have hitherto studied the problem, all trace of them disappears until about 1,000 A. D., according to excerpts from Dr. Martin's report.

This long gap in the reconstruction of prehistoric American human records is now on the road toward being filled, as a result of the researches conducted in the Mogollon and San Francisco mountain regions of New Mexico during the past five months by Dr. Martin and other archeologists associated with him on the expedition.

Village of 'Lost Period.'
Dr. Martin reports the excavation, by his expedition, of a series of pit houses and burials in what was apparently a village of the "lost period." Skeletons, ceremonially buried in a flexed position of apparent religious significance, were found. On the arm of one skeleton there was found a series of four marine shell bracelets, indicating that the southwestern tribes had at least some form of indirect trade with peoples of the Pacific coast. Pottery fragments, some of them in condition to permit of reassembly as complete jars and bowls, have also been collected.

Dr. Martin co-ordinates past knowledge of the "Mogollon culture" people with the new findings, establishing a hypothetical historical sequence.

Some 18,000 years ago the last Pleistocene ice sheet in Canada was so reduced that an ice-free corridor formed at the eastern foot of the Rocky mountains. Through this corridor some of the Asiatic peoples shortly found their way into what is now the United States.

Arizona Yields Evidence.

Evidence of early immigrants is present in southeastern Arizona, and has been studied by other archeologists who have previously worked in this field. The records occur in beds exposed by the modern arroyo erosion. They include stone axes, knives, milling stones, and handstones, and occur in association with bones of extinct horses, bison, camels, dire wolves, and mammoths. Part of the charcoal in the hearths of early dwellings is of hickory, which today grows no closer than some 700 miles to the east. The early people camped on the sandy flood plain of a permanent stream during the Pluvial period which came to a close some 10,000 years ago.

In beds overlying the oldest human records of this region there are artifacts belonging to cultural stages dated by researchers tentatively at about 3000 B. C., 1500 B. C. and 500 B. C. The last of these stages yields the first pottery, and evidence of the beginning of agriculture in the remains of corn. The stone artifacts are plainly developed from earlier types, while the pottery is of a very primitive sort, derived from the stone objects.

From the appearance of the first primitive pottery in 500 B. C. to the advanced forms of painted pottery and highly developed villages in A. D. 1000, all trace of these people had until now been lacking.

United States Merchant Marine to Be World's Best

WASHINGTON.—Unless all signs fail—and they won't—America is on the eve of the greatest program of permanent ship building in its history, with the ultimate goal the restoration of the American merchant flag on the high seas to the commanding position it held prior to the Civil war, but which it has not held since.

A decision by the maritime commission to advance the present building program, of 50 ships a year, by an entire year is predicted.

In other words, the program is to be pushed ahead a whole year, with contracts let for the construction of the 50 vessels of the 1940 program to be let in 1939, and the 1941 and 1942 programs shoved ahead into 1940.

This will enormously stimulate the shipbuilding industry, and call thousands of unemployed mechanics back to work.

A considerable number of long-idle or abandoned shipyards, at least three on the Pacific coast, and perhaps more, and several on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, will be reopened with government aid.

DiMaggio, Arnold Nuptials Sunday

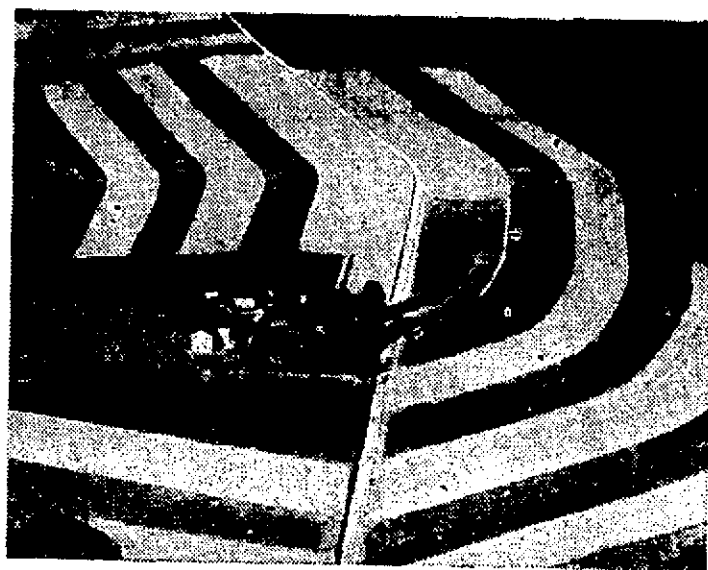

San Francisco, Nov. 20 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio, the San Francisco fisherman's son who batted his way to baseball fame, was off on an automobile honeymoon tour today with his actress bride, the former Dorothy Arnold Olson.

One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a wedding here jammed SS. Peter and Paul Church and the street and park outside as the two were married at 2:30 p. m. yesterday by Father Francis J. Paroline, priest of Joe's parish.

Farmers Paint With A Plow

AP Feature Service
Farming is pretty scientific nowadays, but its results are often artistic—modern artistic at that. Fertile Lancaster county, Pa., where these aerial photos were taken, has been producing crops for 200 years. Recently Federal Soil Conservation agents discovered that on three-quarters of the farms as much as half of the topsoil had eroded. Now farmers are plowing in such a manner that the land will still be producing 200 years from now.

Here different crops were planted in alternate strips. The strips were plowed according to the contours of a hillside, to keep the soil from being washed away.

Alfalfa, a deep-root plant, was used here as a strip crop between narrow cornfields that follow contour lines.

and Hollywood as Dorothy Arnold, went to the altar on the arm of her father, V. A. Olson of Duluth, Minn. She wore a white satin gown of Grecian style with a sculptured bodice, a five-yard train and a coronet veil of fingertip length. She carried gardenias and orchids.

Joe, who met Miss Olson two years ago in a New York film studio, has his brother, Tom, as best man. Matron of honor was Mrs. Irene Morris of Duluth, a sister of the bride. Joe's four sisters, Nellie, Frances, Marie and Mamie, led the march as bridesmaids.

Despite the crowd, both Joe and his bride appeared calm as they took their vows.

and well-wishers during the afternoon and at a wedding reception at Joe's fishermen's wharf restaurant last night, and then started out by automobile for an undisclosed destination. Friends believed the two would tour the southwest and possibly drive to the east coast.

Joe, 24, started in professional baseball with the San Francisco team in the Pacific Coast League. From there he was graduated quickly to the major leagues with the New York Yankees and helped the club to three straight pennants with his timely hitting and good work as a centerfielder. He was voted the American League's most valuable player for 1939.

The DiMaggios will make their home in San Francisco.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Death's Irony
Plymouth, Ind.—Alfred Hand, 65, had a heart attack.

Otto E. Richardson, 55, undertaker, took Hand to a hospital in an ambulance, helped carry him inside, then had a heart attack himself.

Richardson was dead when picked up.

Doctors said Hand had a good chance to recover.

Packed Pork
Logansport, Ind.—Ten weeks in a drain pipe proved an effective weight reducer for Richard Wadupis pig.

The pig weighed 125 pounds when it vanished in September.

It weighed only 45 pounds when found caught in the pipe.

Good Samaritan

Berkeley, Calif.—Claude M. Henrahan's car broke down on his way to police court to answer a traffic summons. A passing motorist gave him a lift.

When Henrahan's case was called he looked up to the bench and saw the man who had helped him—Judge Oliver Youngs.

Judge Youngs fined him $5.

Weaker Sex

Columbus, Mont.—Mrs. Dewey Rhyner went hunting with her husband and three other men.

The men came home empty handed but Mrs. Rhyner bagged a five-point buck weighing 21½ pounds.

Prison Plea

Minneapolis — When Claude Richards of Phoenix, Ariz., pleaded guilty of taking a stolen car across a state line, he demanded that Federal District Judge M. M. Joyce sentence him immediately. "I don't want to answer all those silly questions that probation officers ask," Richards explained.

But the judge delayed sentence—pending an investigation by probation authorities.

THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD LOOKS BETTER SINCE WE PAVED WITH CONCRETE

"I WISH we had put concrete on our streets long ago. Aside from being the best to drive on, it keeps itself clean, looks better, and has made our neighborhood more desirable. Property values are up."

That's not half the story. Your own experience tells you that concrete helps you to drive safely; that it effectively checks skidding; that its light-grey surface helps you see at night.

And concrete saves you money because it is moderate in first cost, low in upkeep and long lasting.

Be guided by your experience and observation. When your streets come up for paving—insist on concrete.

GOOD-WILL BOMBERS

Uncle Sam has bombing planes, too, and very good ones. And he uses them as vehicles for courtesy calls on the neighbors. So the South Americans are coming to be very neighborly, and very close.

A little jaunt like this to Rio de Janeiro is very simple. You just fly straight south through Lima till you get to the Tropic of Capricorn, then turn east, "rolling down to Rio" from the Andes by a route the old sailor song never contemplated. And there you are, with good-natured Brazilians turning out in throngs to welcome you, and government officials bestowing the freedom of the city.

Our rating in Brazil is very high now, and nearly all the neighbors thereabouts like us better as they get to know us. Even haughty Argentina is beginning to warm up lately. Soon there may be air tours for throngs of our private citizens, following the routes that have been pioneered by our army and navy flyers. That should be fine, for mutual acquaintance and friendship.

But our private tourists will do well to take their cues from the official flyers, as far as personal behavior is concerned. They should be very courteous and gentle of speech, and not talk much about power and wealth and the Monroe Doctrine.

POSTHUMOUS PATRON

Human nature is curious. It is often hard to understand people and guess why they do what they do. There is the case of Mrs. Edith Perry Chapman, for instance, who died the other day in a modest tourist home at Elmira, N. Y., leaving securities worth nearly half a million dollars to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, to buy bronzes.

Her relatives say they never knew she was interested in art. Apparently she could have surrounded herself with beautiful art works, but didn't. She has not been known for any previous philanthropy. Now she gives this big fortune to buy fine bronze statues for the public to enjoy, and merely requires that her name shall be inscribed on every statue purchased by the fund.

Thus the lonely old lady will live posthumously, so to speak, as an art patron, and her benefaction will bring interest and pleasure to many people for generations.

And will she know anything about it? That is something nobody knows. But she must have found satisfaction for years in the thought of what she was going to do with her wealth.

SCHOOL FOR SEAMEN

The coast guard is opening its maritime training schools to seamen beached by the neutrality act. Hereafter its new enrollments will be from this group exclusively. The arrangement is expected to provide places for 4,000 men and about 400 officers. It will mean jobs for the men and support for their families, instead of the widespread idleness and destitution feared. It should also increase their knowledge and skill in seamanship.

This sounds like a constructive, sensible solution to a serious problem. It won't take care of everyone, but many of the beached seamen doubtless will be able to provide for themselves elsewhere, and some may even continue in ocean service on other lines and routes.

DISTRIBUTION

"There will be wars," says Adolf Hitler, "as long as the good things of the earth are not distributed equitably—and voluntarily."

This statement is at least half true. Most wars, no doubt, come from inequality of territory, wealth and opportunity and the discontent and envy inspired in the less fortunate nations by their neighbors' prosperity. It is on record that any nation ever achieved its "good things" voluntarily? It is sometimes do that. But people are not expressing themselves through nations and armies, are seldom general. People as a whole act more selfishly than they do as individuals, and call it patriotism.

So the "have" nations cling to their possessions, and the "have-nots" fight to make them share up, and the story of civilization becomes an endless series of wars. And men don't seem much nearer to a remedy than they were when they first fought for the best caves and springs and pastures.

ECONOMIC STATES

Frank Knox, editor of the Chicago News, suggests reorganizing Europe (with this nation merely as an observer) on a basis of economic rather than political facts.

"I envisage the eventual guarantee of peace," he says, "to lie in three major units of world organization. In Europe there should be some sort of a 'united states' not drawn up on political lines, but on economic lines, in the form of a customs union. The Far East, with its unique problems, would be another unit which might be tied together economically in a customs union. For the Americas there would be a third economic interrelationship."

It sounds very sensible. But it is very hard to apply common sense to basic problems of government. People in international relationships, even more than in domestic affairs, tend to put first things last, letting politics and race prejudice interfere with economic facts.

INTERRUPTED BUSINESS

One reason why business in general is not keen about war orders is that it learned a good deal about war business last time and has not forgotten the lesson. War orders are rarely added to normal orders. Often they mean an end to the normal business, on a sharp reduction, so that the abnormal purchases may be paid for. Thus war orders of the immediate future may not do any more than fill the gap left by the withdrawal of our war customers' peacetime business, and there is sure to be more disruption before there is effective restoration of such business after a war is over.

Real profit and progress come more steadily from normal business than from non-constructive, specialized war business.

PAIN IN APPENDICITIS

As it seems to be the general opinion that the pain in appendicitis must be in the lower right side of the abdomen, many health writers, including myself, try to remind readers that the pain usually starts up near the stomach, then gradually shifts down to the appendix and stops there. It might be well, therefore, to learn that while the pain usually starts high in the abdomen, in a number of cases it starts elsewhere.

Dr. Gordon Murray, Toronto, in Canadian Medical Association Journal gives an analysis of 1,000 cases of appendicitis whose records in the Toronto General Hospital have been carefully studied. In this group, the proportion of appendicitis in the male was four to one in the female. Abdominal pain was the first symptom in 80 per cent. The situation of the pain was (1) general cramps in abdomen 75 per cent; (2) right lower part of abdomen (appendix region), 10 per cent; (3) above the stomach 7 per cent; (4) umbilicus or navel region, 2 per cent; (5) at side of abdomen, 2 per cent; (6) underneath the stomach, 2 per cent.

It can thus be seen that the pain in appendicitis may start from various parts of the abdomen, as in only 10 per cent did the pain start in the appendix region. However, in all cases whether the pain started high up, low down, or at the side of the abdomen, in 100 per cent of cases the pain finally shifted to the region of the appendix. The pain was crampy at first, but frequently the crampy pain became less severe, leaving a dull aching sensation in the appendix region.

Aside from the pain and its location, other symptoms mentioned in the report are: loss of appetite was an early symptom; vomiting occurred early and in about 90 per cent of the cases, nausea was present often.

Another interesting point was that in 12 per cent the first symptoms were due to infection elsewhere—sore throat, running nose, influenza or pneumonia. In 8 per cent there was a stomach or intestinal upset just before the onset of the abdominal symptoms of appendicitis—indigestion, lack of appetite, or diarrhoea without pain.

Calm at Washington Would Tend to Show U. S. More and More Remote From War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, Nov. 20.—More than two weeks have gone by and the dire predictions about America being dragged into the war if the arms embargo were repealed have failed to materialize. In reality, a calm has settled over Washington which tends to emphasize that the United States is even more remote from the European war than it ever has been before.

Something has happened also abroad. History may record that passage of the embargo repeal marked a turning point on the diplomatic or psychology front. There can be little doubt that part of the German strategy was based on the assumption that the work done in behalf of an American embargo in the last two years would not be upset and that the allies would not be able to count on a replenishment of the supply of airplanes if German attack became intense.

Today the go-ahead signal for American supplies means an endless stream of materials for the allies. The leaders of Germany's army and economic machine know the futility of a prolonged fight. There is talk now of discussion in the ranks at Berlin while London talks hopefully of an early peace, possibly before another year.

Certainly, since the passage of the embargo repeal, the feeling here has been distinctly in the direction of a shortened war. Most Americans have believed that the end of the war might come through internal revolution in Germany and the overthrow of Hitler. This is, to be sure, typical of the wishful thinking of the allied side, because Germany is a business united patriotically much more in war time than peace time. But the economic factors which caused Germany's defeat in the last war may force an early peace conference without an internal revolution. In other words, Germany may bring about an end of the war by evolution and peaceful transition from a government which the allies say they cannot meet at the peace table to one they can meet.

The most important element in the whole situation is economic. The shortage of gasoline needed for airplanes, the gradual breakdown of the submarine warfare and the enforcement of the economic blockade by strict rationing of supplies consigned to neutral states contiguous to Germany are big influences in the councils of the German high command nowadays. If the war was to be won by Germany, it has all along been believed here it would have to be by a series of quick strokes, the opportunity for the success of which seems to have diminished with the increased allied preparations.

By chance the war is over before the 1940 campaign begins in America, the Democratic organs will not fail to argue that the embargo repeal, so vigorously fought by the Republicans, really brought peace. Certainly the Democrats are far more eager for the war to end than they were last September, when some of the politically-minded among them thought sure the outbreak of hostilities abroad insured Roosevelt a third term. As the war issues tend to grow less and less important, the arguments for a third term likewise are rendered less persuasive.

The expectation of an early end to the war has begun to dominate thinking here. What economic effects may be anticipated from a shrinking of war orders, if any? What will be the effect on national defense plans? For the moment, the administrations' statistical output indicates a boom year for 1940 irrespective of the war, due no doubt to the stagnation which had brought on low inventories and a low velocity of transactions in 1937 and 1938. Psychologically, an early ending of the war may bring a bit of hesitation, but the underlying trend of the whole nation toward conservatism, which in June, 1939, started giving the business men the confidence they had been pleading for, has produced a momentum in business that may not at all be affected by a cessation of war orders.

Danes Have Reputation

As Skilled Lacemakers

One of the Danish kings of long ago forbade all women who made lace to leave the kingdom. He was afraid that emigrants would divulge to foreigners the methods of this marvelous native handicraft industry.

Today such forcible secrecy is out of fashion but Danish peasant women still have a monopoly in producing certain kinds of intricately worked designs in fine linen thread. A particularly desirable variety in Copenhagen shops is Tonder lace, made only by women in the little town of that name, situated on the Jutland peninsula.

Another famous sort of needlework found in shops in the Danish capital is the Hedebo embroidery. The technique in making this stuff is many centuries old, but it continues to appear in new designs, as it has since it originated in the Middle Ages.

Besides the cunning and rich designs from cottage industry, needles, silver and china are two commodities that visitors should consider in Denmark. Modern Danish porcelain may be from either the royal or a private factory. The first kind is identified by a trade mark showing three wavy lines which represent the three sea passages through the Danish Archipelago by which ships enter the Baltic, the Sound, the Great Belt and the Little Belt. The private pottery mark displays the three towers on the national coat of arms.

In either case china bought in good shops in Copenhagen or the other cities of the country is a lovely ware. The workmen who paint the designs on it are real artists. Many of them are descended from a line of ancestors who have handed down their skill from father to son and the decorations are baked into a clay mixed by a process that still is a secret.

Danish silver has the widest reputation of all the artistic things produced in the country. In fact, it can be purchased now in nearly every large city in the world.

Freak Lightning Bolt

When lightning struck near the residence of J. S. Kegg, Paradise, Calif., it knocked his pet dog 20 feet through the air without even waiting to untie it from a tree. The flash of light was so bright that the family was convinced the house was on fire. The lightning stunned Kegg's son so he could not speak for several minutes and it put out the lights in several nearby houses.

OLIVE BRIDGE

Olive Bridge, Nov. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winchell with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hyatt, of Kingston as guests, attended the sixth annual banquet of the association of grand jurors of Ulster county in the mirror room of the Golden Rule Inn, at Ulster Park on Wednesday evening.

Miss Marilyn Dudley spent the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dudley.

Dr. Henry L. Bibby, health officer for the town of Olive, will hold a clinic for vaccination and diphtheria prevention, Monday November 27. In the morning a clinic will be held at the Shokan Reformed church at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Davis, Miss Ann Cassidy, county nurse, is assisting Dr. Bibby in making preparations and some of the local women and teachers are cooperating so as many as possible will be reached. All parents of children over six years of age are urged to attend. The clinic is free and the great susceptibility of children under five years to these diseases namely, small pox and diphtheria, makes it most important that all children in the lower group be protected. Alonzo Davis, while hauling logs with his team on the New York city property, was hurt in the leg with a rung chain and was taken to the Kingston Hospital. Later it was found that his condition was not as serious as expected at first and was brought back to his home.

Arthur Grey, Bill Schirman and Joseph Wynne, all from New York, are stopping at Brookside cottage for the deer hunting season. The boys report no luck but said they saw several does.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Vollmer were supper guests at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cecil Gray, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanbridge and daughter, Jean, called on J. C. Marshall and family Thursday evening.

William Lasher is on a hunting trip up state. Mrs. Earl Osterhout, of Stone Ridge, and mother, Mrs. Jennie Myers called on Mrs. R. E. Davis Friday afternoon.

John Joseph Schreiner, Jr., of Albany, has been one up on most of us from the start. Normal baby in every other respect, John Joseph sported one tooth from birth.

Fall browning of evergreens, especially arbor-vitae, is "quite natural," Dr. F. L. Gambrell, entomologist of the New York state agricultural experiment station, advises in answer to numerous queries. "In the early fall the amount of browning may vary considerably during different years," said Dr. Gambrell. "Commonly it is a case of natural shedding or pruning of the older leaves and branches and is comparable to that which occurs on deciduous plants."

More puffs per pack...and

More Mildness, Coolness, and Flavor with Slower-Burning Camels

FAST BURNING — creates hot flat taste in smoke...ruins delicate flavor, aroma...

SLOW BURNING — protects natural qualities that produce mildness, thrilling taste, fragrance...a cooler smoke...

The costlier tobaccos are slower-burning...milder...cooler...mellower

MANY a smoker has switched to Camels because his value-sense applauded the thrift of getting more puffs per pack. But...

That's only one small part of the story of slow burning. You get a lot more than savings!

You get extra mildness! Common sense tells you that a fast, fiery, hot-burning cigarette will not smoke comfortably or yield a delicate taste and fragrance. And that slow-burning tobaccos naturally would be mild and mellow.

You get extra coolness. You needn't be a scientist to know that the slower tobacco burns, the cooler the smoking.

You get extra-fine flavor. Excess heat ruthlessly destroys the subtle elements of flavor and aroma. Slow-burning Camels tell their own taste-tale!

So...for thrift and for a smoking thrill...light up a slow-burning Camel!

SMOKERS: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax — and, in some instances, more — through smoking Camels. (See right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy — and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking — the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested — slower than any of them — CAMELS give a smoking plus equal to

Inventor Certain He Has Found Way To Minimize Fogs

Glendale, Cal., Nov. 20 (AP)—A veteran inventor of air safety devices thinks he has found a way to combat aviation's greatest enemy—fog.

Guy Ball in two decades has been credited with important inventions in army parachutes and ground-illuminating flares.

Now, he said, he and W. L. Cummings, electrical manufacturer, have successfully tested a model of a photo-electric cell sensitive to infra-red rays which will "see" through fog.

It consists, Ball explained, of a cell which will capture the rays and transfer them, through an iconoscope, camera lens, to a ground-glass "television type" screen on an airplane's instrument board. The pilot, watching the glass, will have a picture of the terrain beneath him.

Ball would not discuss construction of the cell, which he described as developed by Cummings after scientists had called it impossible. He said work would be started shortly on a full-size device to be housed in an airplane's nose.

Ghostly Superstitions

Led to Wearing 'Black'

Black clothes worn after the death of a relative did not originally express grief, according to Sir James G. Frazer, British author.

The real reason was to make the wearers of black less easily seen and thus to hide them from ghosts of the departed returning to seek vengeance or to finish forgotten tasks.

The keynote of primitive ideas of death and dead people Sir James believes to be fear. Spirits of the dead were supposed to linger close to their former villages or homes and to work injuries on relatives or former tribal companions. How this fear began no one knows. One cause may have been epidemics of what now are known to be contagious diseases, in which relatives of persons already dead were observed to sicken and die in turn.

However this may be, surviving relatives tried always to avoid being seen or recognized by the ghosts supposed to be looking for them. One way of concealment was by keeping inside huts or tents, also a common mourning custom. Another was to wear dark and inconspicuous clothes so that the dreaded ghosts might miss them, especially at night.

In the course of time the reason for this custom of dark clothes was forgotten and only the idea of showing grief remains. In parts of China conventional mourning clothing is white instead of black, which agrees with the probability that primitive ancestors of these Chinese peoples once were desert dwellers, where dark clothes would have been the most conspicuous and white, yellow or other light-colored ones the best for hiding.

Early U. S. Justice

Great respect for a stranger's time was shown 300 years ago by Massachusetts Bay colony. The WPA historical records survey found that the colonial laws of June 6, 1639, provided that the governor or deputies could hear and determine all actions concerning strangers, either by jury trial or otherwise. This was to dispatch speedily cases of visitors who could not remain to attend ordinary courts of justice.

Copper Roof Appears

Like Field of Fire

SALT LAKE CITY.—A copper roof on the new University of Utah fieldhouse looks like a field of fire when the sun shines on it from a certain angle.

Dean C. Pack, whose firm supplied the copper for the roofing, said it contained 59,400 square feet of the metal, in strips one foot wide. Placed end to end, the strips would extend over nearly 12 miles. Weighing 16,000 pounds, the copper is equal to that contained in approximately 1,175,500 pennies.

The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston Invites the Public to Inspect Its New Home

This 48-year-old home building association, which has enabled hundreds of Kingston people to own their own homes now has a home of its own. Like all new home owners, The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston is indeed proud of its new home and on Tuesday and Tuesday evening, (Nov. 21, 1939) will hold "open house" so that its friends and neighbors may come in and look around and acquire a personal interest.

Located just below the Ulster County Court House, this new home, in design, pays its respects to the Colonial City. The structure's interior gives to our shareholders of the present and future, such facilities for service which for some time have been seen as a necessity.

We planned carefully. We built substantially and held always the objective of pleasing you. This new home is at your service. Come and see it. Let us know how you like it.

THE NEW HOME OF THE SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF KINGSTON, AT 267 WALL STREET, KINGSTON, N. Y.

We are proud of this substantial addition to the assets of this community. We invite you to share this pride through an intimate understanding of the service which this new home offers. This is a home for the building of more homes—a home-owners' home for the building of savings.

Savings and Loan Associations have become a most definite part of each progressive American community. With the opening of this new building Kingston joins the list of cities which have separate office buildings for their Savings and Loan Association.

These buildings have been erected when the volume of business, the increasing number of shareholders and the consequent multiplication of office functions made increased space imperative.

The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston is one of the largest organizations of its kind in the state. We have nearly two thousand shareholders and investors, with assets of nearly one and one-half million dollars. The proper handling of this business and provisions for a normal future growth makes this new building a necessity.

Along with the invitation to inspect this new home there is extended to you an invitation to share the benefits which we offer to prospective builders and investors.

Open for Public Inspection Tuesday and Tuesday Evening

Voltaire Note on Poland Arouses Soviet Protest

STOCKHOLM.—Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, Soviet minister to Sweden, protested to the foreign office against an article appearing in the newspaper Social-Demokraten which, commenting on the partition of Poland, cited a letter written in 1772 by Voltaire to Empress Catherine of Russia.

"Have you, like other thieves, immediately begun to divide the spoils?" Voltaire asked the empress.

'Old Red Barn'

The "old red barn"—so much a part of our national heritage—owes its color to a thrifty New England custom that originated before the Revolution. In those days, reports Frederic Rahr, color consultant for the House of Outside Color exhibition in New York, and designer of many new asphalt shingle blends and colors, it was the custom to paint almost all buildings with an undercoat of a red-earth paint called "Spanish brown." A final coat of some light bodied paint was then applied over it. The frugal colonists, however, frequently omitted the final coat on barns and other "utilitarian" buildings. Barns, as a result, remained red, and remain red to this day in many parts of the country.

Roosevelt Causes Speculation Over Third Term Intentions; Three GOP Groups Confer Upon 1940 Program

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP).—

Another wave of speculation over President Roosevelt's political intentions rolled along today in the wake of a speech in which he expressed the hope his collections and papers would be ready for "public inspection and use" by the spring of 1941.

In a bantering mood yesterday at the site of the library that will house the private papers of his public life, the President said he hoped "my good friends of the press" would give "due interpretation to the expression of my hope that when we open the building to the public it will be a fine day."

The remark was interpolated in his address at the laying of the library cornerstone on the Roosevelt estate and interpreted by most reporters as meaning the President actually is enjoying all the hullabaloo over whether he will aim for a third term.

Furnishes No Clue

The disclosure the President's correspondence would be available to students, historians and biographers by the middle of 1941, furnished no real clue to his intentions. It did serve, however, to bring the third-term puzzle to the fore again by leading to conjecture whether Mr. Roosevelt would wish the public to have access to records on the New Deal's intimate workings, if he intended to seek reelection next year.

Into a copper box that fitted into the cornerstone of the library, the President tucked copies of newspapers which printed stories that linked the third term and the 1941 opening date of the library.

Then he heard several speeches and made one himself. Among those who listened was Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator. The former governor of Indiana, with strong, organized backing in his home state, has seen his name put forward for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940—if Mr. Roosevelt does not want it.

McNutt was one of the individuals who subscribed to the $350,000 cost of the library.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled how he had played as a lad in the very field where the Dutch colonial library was rising—climbing trees, eating strawberries from the plants, sailing toy boats in water from melted snow, and helping his dogs dig into woodchuck holes.

After the ceremonies, the President motored to Hyde Park station and took a special train back to Washington. He will leave the capital tomorrow for a week at Warm Springs, Ga., where he habitually spends Thanksgiving.

Sidewalk News Ticker

Probably the only sidewalk news ticker in the city has just been installed at the main entrance of the Associated Press building in New York city. The ticker, exactly like that used in newspaper offices, press associations, and other news gathering agencies, is attached, at times, to the 285 miles of leased wire of the Associated Press which services some 1,400 newspapers throughout the country. Each minute, about 63 words flash through the news ticker. Directly opposite the ticker will be installed shortly an Associated Press wire photo machine, which will print news photographs while the passersby watch. It is the same type of machine that sends photographs to news gathering agencies of the association in 60 cities throughout the world.

Washington, Nov. 20 (AP).—

News that three Republican groups are conferring on farm and labor planks for their 1940 platform provided a diversion today for political forecasters who for weeks have talked about little except the third term question.

Interest in the burning topic of whether President Roosevelt will run again was kept alive, however, with a comment by Paul V. McNutt that "no possible combination or permutation" could keep the nomination away from the Chief Executive if he chose to make the race.

McNutt, federal security administrator, who spent the week-end at Hyde Park, N. Y., attending the cornerstone-laying for the new Roosevelt library, has said repeatedly that he would withdraw from the 1940 convention contest if Mr. Roosevelt sought a third term.

Having Lot of Fun

The President admittedly is having a lot of fun keeping newspapermen and politicians guessing about his intentions. McNutt told reporters:

"If Mr. Roosevelt decides to run, he will be nominated and elected. If he doesn't run, the Democratic nominee will have to be acceptable to him."

Politicians generally agree that the farm states will be one of the major battlegrounds in the 1940 campaign. Republicans made marked gains in the midwest state and congressional races last year, and are eager to follow up those victories.

It was learned that Senator McNary of Oregon, Senate minority leader, has been conferring with other party chieftains on ideas for strong farm and labor planks.

McNary, one of the authors of the McNary-Haugen farm bill back in the Coolidge Hoover days, believes, like many of his colleagues, that the administration's reciprocal trade program is detrimental to western agriculture and should be altered or scrapped.

A second Republican group studying the farm question has just been created. Chairman Hope (R., Kans.) of the House Republican agricultural study committee named a sub-committee headed by Rep. Horton (R., Wyo.), with Reps. Allen (R., Ill.) and Dworshak (R., Idaho) as members.

A third Republican group giving attention to the farm problem is a sub-committee of the general program committee headed by Dr.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Lillian D. Rorrick, who departed this life November 20, 1937.

We'll never forget you, mother, dear,
Though you have passed away,
Within our hearts and ever near,
Your memory still will stay.
After our thoughts go wandering
To a grave not far away,
Where lies the sweetest memories
Of the one we loved,
But could not save.

To watch her slowly leave us,
As helpless we stood by,
We drained the cup of bitter grief
The day we saw her die.
So we shed our tears in silence
And breathe a sigh of regret,
For we'll love and remember her
Always
When all the world forgets.
The Rorrick Family.

Astronomical Distances

Must Be Re-Surveyed

Discovery of a special bending of starlight near the time of sunrise and sunset, due apparently to peculiar waves on top of Earth's atmosphere, has been announced at Columbia university.

The discovery affects the basic measurements as astronomical distances. It shrinks the estimates of the size of the Milky Way, and indicates that many stars familiar to the naked eye are two or three times nearer than has been believed.

About 5,000 stars are affected. They are the stars whose distances were supposed to have been accurately measured by ordinary engineering surveying methods. The nearest of these, such as Proxima Centauri, the closest star, distance four and three-tenths light years, are only slightly affected. But the error rises rapidly with increasing distance.

The discovery was made by Prof. Jan Schilt, head of Columbia's Rutherford observatory.

It has long been known that bending occurs when light passes from empty space into the atmosphere. But Professor Schilt has found a new bending.

The twist affects astronomy's measurements of star distances because many of these are taken near sunrise and sunset. Accurate measurements of these distances are astronomy's yardstick for calculating the distances to the millions of other stars too remote for surveying.

'White King' Pays Visit to City and Meets an Ex-Buddy

Last week Kingston was visited by a king—the White King of La Gonave, who joined the ranks of "royalty" by way of the United States Marine Corps.

Yes, the king was in town, but nobody knew it, except another man who served under the Stars and Stripes as one of Uncle Sam's Devil Dogs in the tropics, Albert Melville, of 32 Stephan street.

The king, Sergeant Austin E. Wirkus, hero of chapters in the book "Magic Island" written by William B. Seabrook of Rhinebeck, and an eminent author and lecturer himself, was with Sergeant Maxwell P. Dickerson, recruiting for the Marines to build this country's defense forces.

Dickerson had enlisted Melville back in 1927 for foreign service in the tropics and wanted to see him again. He and the White King did and they reminisced thick and fast about bygone days and their old buddies.

"This is one of the proudest moments of my life," said Melville as he shook the hand of Sergeant Wirkus. "I'd rather have an audience with you than any man of royal strain in the world."

Melville, known since he left the service as "The Great Mel," because of his handiwork swimming feats, had read and heard much of Wirkus, but never met him personally.

Sergeant Dickerson interrupted the meeting to laud Melville on his service in Nicaragua where he was cited for bravery by the government during the Sandino uprising, but the plucky ex-Marine shook his head and waived all conversation except that about "a truly great man."

18 Years of Service

Sergeant Wirkus saw 18 years of active service in the Marines, 13 and one-half of which were spent in Haiti during American occupation. He was detailed to La Gonave and was commander of 12,000 natives there for four years.

They were black and although I was of a different race, it made no difference," Sergeant Wirkus said. "They saw fit to crown me their king, and I tried to live up to the title bestowed upon me."

A full coronation ceremony was held by the natives after the Marine sergeant had officiated as their ruler for 18 months, and the various tribes gathered from miles around to take part in proclaiming him king.

"I was very much impressed by the ceremony conducted by the natives in all of their finery, beating their tom-toms and singing in a language of their own, hailing me as their king."

This coronation was far from the thoughts of Sergeant Wirkus when he joined the Marines, but the great manifestation of the La Gonave natives made him realize Uncle Sam's fighting men are called upon for other missions beside hostile ones.

"The natives of La Gonave were primitive, but hospitable, and I never carried any weapon except a shotgun with which I used to hunt birds," he said.

Bettors Conditions

In return for the kind feeling shown by the natives, the White King aided them in their quest for better living conditions, procuring aid for them in raising their stock and in other ways.

"My days on La Gonave, although trying at times, were happy ones, and I want to impress upon the youth of our country that an enlistment, even for one hitch, is an education in itself—and there are plenty of opportunities and possibilities."

Men from 18 to 30 interested in joining the Marines may procure information and enlistment blanks at any United States post office.

Two Face Judge On Gun Charge

Ernest Charloire, 30, and Steve Kearney, 26, both of Glenelg Lake Park, waived examination this morning in police court when arraigned before Judge Raymond Mino on a charge of illegal possession of firearms. Judge Mino informed them that bail would be fixed in county court.

Both men were arrested Sunday on North Front street by Officer Fallon, who had received a complaint from John Lowe that he had been threatened with a gun.

According to the police they found lying on the floor of the automobile in which Charloire and Kearney were riding a .32 calibre Colt automatic.

U. S. Boat Offers Aid in Grappling For Two Hunters

A boat from the engineers' office of the U. S. War Department at Albany was offered today in the continued search for two bodies of the five men drowned a week ago Saturday night in the Hudson river while in a hunting trip near Catskill.

Officials in charge of the grappling work announced that the war department boat arrived at Catskill this morning but returned when it was found unsuitable for the searching efforts. It is expected, however, that another war department craft will join in the search by tomorrow.

Seven cruisers and four row-boats engaged in the grappling efforts throughout most of last week, continued their methodical search for the two missing hunters today.

Grappling efforts generally centered around the area in which the three other bodies were recovered, but at intervals some of the boats make trips for a considerable distance south of the spot where the men were believed thrown from their light outboard motor boat last Saturday evening.

The funeral for William S. Riley of Catskill whose body was the first recovered, was held from his late home Saturday afternoon and that for Dr. John F. Redmond, Catskill dentist was held at Utica this morning. Funeral arrangements for Dr. William Harrison Herron of Stamford, were not announced in full, but it was expected that he will be buried today or tomorrow.

The two bodies unrecovered are those of Earl C. Londenslager, dental supply salesman of Kingston, and James F. Roe of Catskill.

Officials in charge of the grappling work expressed little hope today of recovering any of the guns carried by the men on their hunting trip. Recovery of any of the guns, they said, would establish the approximate point where the boat capsized, but they do not expect to find any of the guns in their searching efforts.

Shifting Plates Cost Driver Fine

It cost Theodore Heath, 45, of Lomontville, a $5 fine when he attempted to drive a car equipped with license plates issued for another car when he was arraigned before Judge Raymond Mino in police court today charged with use of improper registration plates.

Mr. Heath explained to Judge Mino that he had an opportunity to obtain a job on the New York city waterworks in southern Ulster, but when he went out to get his car he found the tires so worn it was not safe to drive and he took off the number plates and placed them on another car and started for the job.

He got as far as Kingston, where according to the police, he collided with a parked car on Sunday at the corner of Clinton avenue and John street. The accident led to his arrest when it was found he was using the wrong plates on the car he was driving.

Theodore Diacetes, 27, of Ravena, was arrested Saturday charged with parking the left side of his machine to a line of cars on Broadway, near Field Court. Today he forfeited $5 cash bail by failing to appear and answer to the charge.

Harry Costello of this city was fined $5 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Tells of New Gas

"Unless you have been on the inside and seen the wheels go around as I have," says E. N. Gerken, Sun Oil Company's branch manager, "you cannot imagine all the work there is incident to introducing a new motor fuel like our own Nu-Blue Sunoco." The original idea behind the revolutionary new process which makes possible Nu-Blue Sunoco is over 10 years old. Since then millions of dollars and unending years of research have been devoted to transforming an idea into a new miracle of gasoline chemistry.

Picture Tells the Story

Officers of the Cleveland, Ohio, police department soon will be taking pictures of speeders and presenting the pictures in court through the development of a speedometer by Capt. Walter M. Wolcott. The picture taken shows the speeding automobile, its license and its position in the streets, and reveals the speed on the specially constructed speedometer on the front of a police car.

Canadian Feminine Fitness

Comparing the records of all students since 1904, Canadian investigators learned that only 23.8 per cent of the women in 1904 were found fit for all physical exercise, while 96.1 per cent of this year's class were fit. Furthermore, the 1904 girl was only 62.7 inches tall and weighed 118 pounds, while her 1939 sister is 63.9 inches tall and weighs 124 pounds.

Wild Duck and Geese Are Flying South Again

AP Feature Service
The annual fall hunting season on wild waterfowl is in full swing throughout two-thirds of the United States with the Southern sector scheduled to begin firing away November 15. Reports from veteran gunners say the shooting is better this year than in any recent season. A restricted Federal hunting program for the past several years has enabled the waterfowl population to increase and now there is game enough for all sharpshooters. These excellent waterfowl pictures were taken a few weeks ago near Oshkosh, Wis., by Dr. Howard J. Lee. At left are a group of blue-winged teal sailing South and on the right is a blue goose in full flight.

Dewey Assistant Testifies About Kuhn Bail Raise

New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—An assistant district attorney called by the defense today at the trial of Fritz Kuhn testified that the German-American Bund leader's bail was raised from $5,000 to $50,000 last September because of fear he was about to flee to Mexico. Kuhn is charged with stealing $1,891 of the bund's funds. Before the witness, Milton Schilback, testified, Kuhn's counsel, Peter L. F. Sabbatino, moved vainly for a mistrial after Judge James G. Wallace had excluded the public from the courtroom and rebuked Sabbatino for disputing the ruling. Judge Wallace also upheld the right of the district attorney's office to use in evidence records seized at the bund headquarters last May over defense contentions the seizure was illegal. Schilback testified he asked Judge Cornelius F. Collins to raise Kuhn's bail after Lieut. William E. Grafnecker in charge of detectives attached to the district attorney's

Car-Train Crash Kills Four Workers Near New Britain

Ronald Loomis, William Frazier and Jeremiah Lynch. Their bodies, flung from the demolished automobile, were strewn along the railroad right-of-way. The injured man was Joseph Gazda, also of New Britain. Police Lieutenant Michael Flynn said witnesses told him the warning signal lights were operating at the crossing and that the automobile swung to the left to pass a line of other cars which had halted at the train's approach and reached the tracks just at the moment that the locomotive came to the crossing. It was not determined who was driving the automobile. The train was in charge of two Waterbury men, John White, conductor, and Fred E. Jackson, engineer.

Plane Attack
London, Nov. 20 (AP)—The admiralty announced tonight German aircraft had "made an unsuccessful bombing attack" on a British destroyer in the southern part of the North Sea.

A husband who will not leave a grill when his wife calls from outside is equally responsible with her if she tossed a brick through the window Police Justice Edward S. Kampf of Albany opines. Kampf made the ruling when the woman in the case pleaded guilty to breach of the peace after the brick slightly injured the leg of another woman. Upon the girl he suspended the sentence on her, reprimanded the errant husband and ordered him to settle for the damage.

M. J. Clark Dies At Newton Hook; Ill for Long Time

Matthew J. Clark, for 20 years superintendent of the Empire Brick Company at Newton Hook, died at his home there on Saturday after a long illness. Mr. Clark was a former resident of Kingston and in his youth was widely known as a ball player and athlete. His wife is the former Miss Genevieve Zech, daughter of George Zech, who for years conducted old Washington Hall on Albee street, on the site of which now stands the first packing house.

Mr. Clark had been afflicted with a heart ailment a year ago, and since then his health had not been of the best. He was widely known in the brick industry in the Hudson river valley. Fraternally Mr. Clark was a member of Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus. Surviving besides his wife are four daughters, Mrs. Genevieve Kilmer of Hudson and the Misses Lucille, Loreta and Rosemary, all at home, five sons, Matthew, Jr., Joseph, Kenneth, Francis and John Clark, all at home; five sisters, Mrs. John Tyrell of Yonkers, Mrs. Daniel Cassidy and the Misses Marie, Lucille and Catherine Clark of Kingston, a brother, Thomas Clark, of New Brunswick, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the late home in Newton Hook on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and thence to St. Mary's Church, Stuyvesant Falls, where at 9:30 o'clock a solemn requiem high Mass will be offered, with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city.

Mercury Descends After Warm Days

Kingstonians shivered this morning when the mercury went shooting down to a low of 23 degrees, following several days of moderate temperature for this season of the year. The lowest temperature so far recorded this season, however, is 20 degrees. The official city thermometer at the city hall recorded the low of 23 degrees this morning, but thermometers in other sections of the city registered even lower. According to the records in the city engineer's office the lowest temperature was on November 14 and 15 when a low of 20 was reported. On November 4, a low of 22 degrees was recorded. Ice formed during the night in the city, and the ground was covered with frost this morning.

Arson Evidence In Fire at Ruby, Troopers Declare

The one-story casino building in Ruby, formerly known as Gypsyland Inn, and comprising barroom, restaurant and dance hall, burned to the ground early Sunday morning. The dwelling house, about a 100 feet away, also was on fire, but sustained little damage. The property is owned by Samuel Levy of Kingston.

Spencer Crowder of Ruby, driving by about 4:30 Sunday morning, saw the dance hall in flames. He aroused some of the neighbors and when they returned to the scene they noticed a fire in the kitchen of the nearby house. They broke into the house and put out the fire there before much damage had been done.

Trooper Metzger of the B.C.L., who with Trooper Baker, Troopers Reilly and Merritt and Deputy Sheriff Brown, is investigating the fire, said this morning that there was evidence that the fire was of incendiary origin, gasoline and kerosene having been scattered about plentifully.

The dance hall, which with contents is said to be insured for $3,000, was a complete loss. It had not been operated for some time.

Three-Way Probe Of Blast Begins

pany, a Standard Oil subsidiary, and thus is of Panamanian registry. The oil was unloaded by Friday night.

No one was hurt by the blast itself but Valdemar Peterson, cook on an adjoining tanker, suffered a sprained ankle when he jumped to the deck of the Meowinkel.

The explosion occurred in an empty double tank in the hold and ripped a hole 65 feet long and 35 feet wide in the deck, breaking steel plates backwards as though they were on hinges.

Twenty of the crew of 45 were on shore leave at the time. On board were 15 tank cleaners and several private detectives employed as watchmen.

Crew members said it was a "miracle" none of the men aboard were injured. Captain Andrew Bastian, assistant port captain for the company's marine department, said the Meowinkel carried a German crew until the outbreak of the war in Europe. American seamen were hired then, he said.

State Teachers Are Warned Of Impending Job Decreases

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20 (AP)—The House of Delegates, New York State Teachers Association, heard today warnings of large impending decreases in the state's $2,000 public school teaching positions. At the same time, the group planned to support by resolution the state aid to schools study of the board of regents, as a barrier against further legislative cuts in school appropriations.

'A-Hunting We Will Go'

It's hunting time in the Southland and so young settlers don't appear to need much urging to get out into the field. This quartet of prize hunters lives in Mississippi, noted for its quail hunting. Their training period finished, they're all set for action.

After scanning reports that 12 of his fellow countrymen had been executed by German guards in a series of anti-Nazi demonstrations that swept Bohemia-Moravia, Colonel Vladimir Hurban, Czech-Slovak minister to the United States, went to the fourth-floor balcony of the American legation in Washington and struck the Czech flag to half mast in mourning. Hurban has maintained the legation in Washington ever since, although his country went out of existence as a nation as the result of the Hitler putsch of more than a year ago.

FRIEND to HUMANITY—IN PEACE or WAR

In addition to its help to war-torn Europe, the American Red Cross is facing one of its busiest years in meeting the needs of the disaster-stricken while it carries on a daily fight against accidental death, disease and other forms of human distress

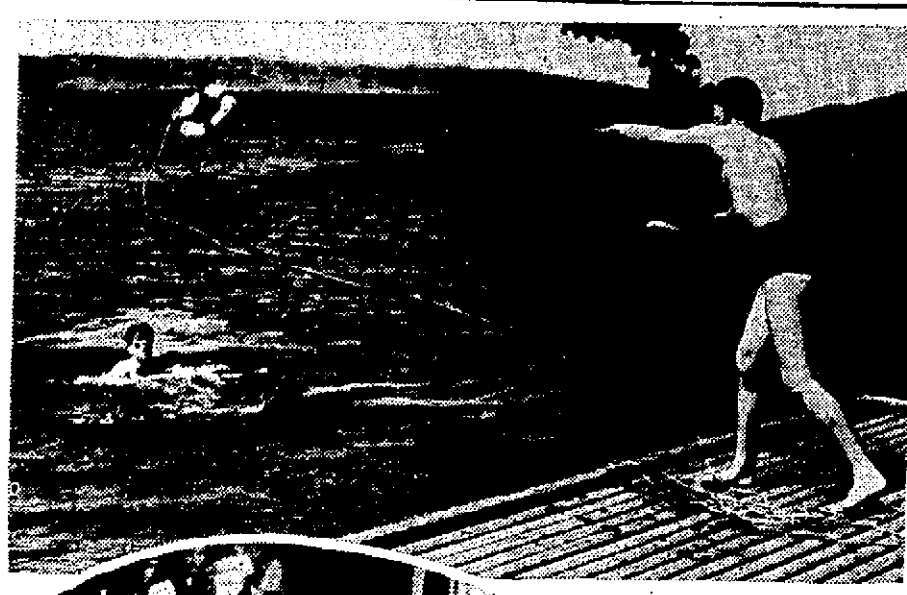

DISASTER STRIKES—Last year disaster, similar to this occurred 156 times in the United States, calling for Red Cross emergency and rehabilitation assistance to 30,000 persons.

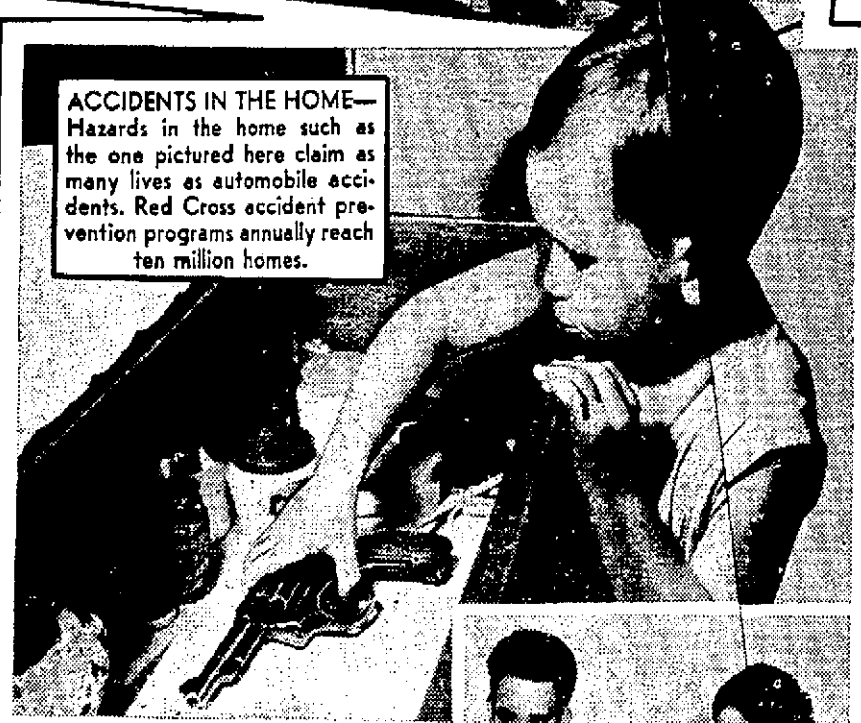

THE THREAT OF EPIDEMIC—This youngster doesn't like the idea of inoculation, but in later years he will thank the Red Cross for its program of fighting the spread of communicable disease in the nation.

HIGHWAY FIRST AID—While this Red Cross volunteer phones for a physician another First Aider gives emergency treatment to an injured motorist. There are 5,500 emergency stations in the United States.

WATER SAFETY—Accidental drowning each year claims approximately 7,500 lives. During the past summer, the Red Cross certificated its millionth Life Saver.

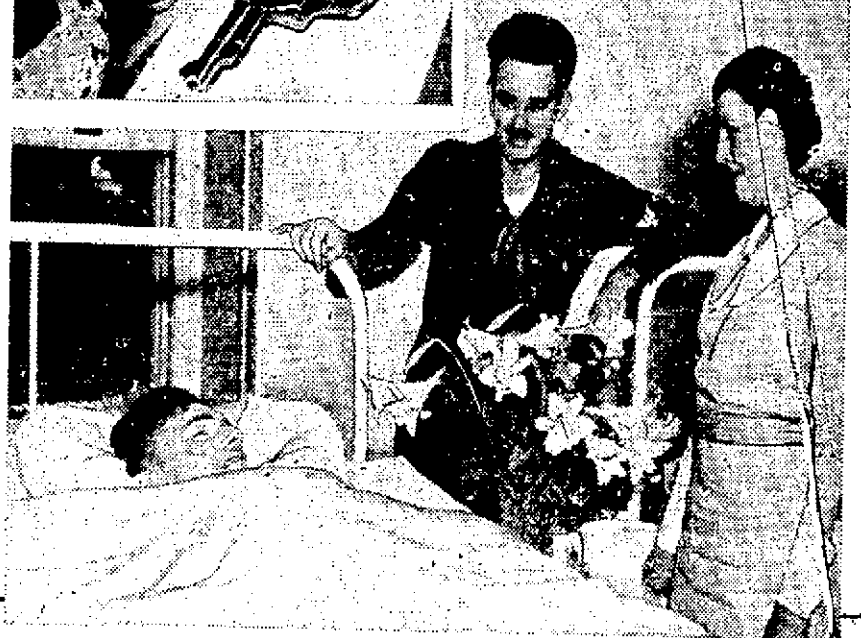

ACCIDENTS IN THE HOME—Hazards in the home such as the one pictured here claim as many lives as automobile accidents. Red Cross accident prevention programs annually reach ten million homes.

FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN NATIONS—These Red Cross Juniors are part of an army of 7,500,000 young Americans carrying on a program of international correspondence to create a better understanding between nations.

TO BIND THE WOUNDS OF WAR—With war in Europe thousands of Red Cross volunteers (left) throughout the country are preparing surgical dressings and refugee clothing, that needs of the injured may be met. Emergency closets of supplies are held in readiness for domestic calamities.

AID TO VETERANS AND SERVICE MEN—Scenes like this occur daily in military hospitals as Red Cross workers speed the recovery of the disabled veteran and aid or, in active service and their dependents in solving their social and economic problems.

STOLEN PASS BECOMES A LATERAL

Penn State added insult to injury in second quarter of Army game at West Point when Leon Gajewski (left) intercepted an Army pass, was tackled by Harry Heffner (34), Army back—but with surprising deftness flipped a lateral to John Patrick (5), left halfback. The ball is shown on its way to Patrick, who carried it for 26 yards before he was pulled down. Game ended in 14-14 tie.

Can't Do It All

Olie Cordill (left), and Ernie Lain are the two giants who were expected to make Rice a top power on the gridiron their last two years in school. Both have been brilliant at times but the Owls still flounder.

Hall Stars in Pro Game for Rams

Chicago, Nov. 20 (AP)—Parker Hall, pro freshman and All-American back at Mississippi a year ago, turned yesterday's game into a one-man show as his Cleveland Rams thrashed the Detroit Lions, 14 to 3, dropping the losers from a tie for first to third place in the western division of the National Professional Football League. Hall accounted for both touchdowns with deft aerial pitching, tossing a seven-yard pass to Johnny Wilson for one tally and another to Jim Benton for the second touchdown. Hall connected for 16 passes in 25 attempts and a net total of 149 yards. He now has completed 76 in 155 tries in nine games, five short of the season record held by Washington's Sammy Baugh. Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian All-American of 1938, completed passes all over the field for the Philadelphia Eagles, but the Eagles lost to the Chicago Bears, 27 to 14.

Dodgers Easy
Green Bay smashed Brooklyn easily, 28 to 0, and now is favored to win the western division title. The Packers play Cleveland Sunday, then Detroit in the final game. The Lions must defeat Washington and the Packers to get a tie. The Bears, who have only to play the Chicago Cardinals, are a half game back of the Packers.

In the eastern division Washington and New York maintained their stalemate for the top spot. The Giants had no trouble disposing of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 23 to 7. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia are without a victory this season. Washington likewise braved to a 28 to 7 decision over the Cardinals. Next Sunday the Giants play Brooklyn while the Redskins meet the Lions. If both win the eastern title will be determined when they engage each other December 3.

The standings:

Congressional Apportionment
According to the Congressional Directory "the apportionment based on the last census was made by the method of major fractions, which as applied to a House of 435 members, gave each state as many representatives as the whole number of times 279,712 was contained in the total population of each state plus an additional representative if the fractional remainder was greater than one-half." However, since the total population of the United States (exclusive of the District of Columbia, territories and possessions) according to the last census was 122,063,453, the actual representation was one to each 280,674 persons.

Statue for Army Male
The Italian government has erected a statue in one of the main parks in Rome in honor of the services rendered by the mule to the Italian forces on the Alpine front during the World war and for his later assistance in the tropical heat and parched deserts of Ethiopia. The mule on the pedestal bears a 65-millimeter anti-aircraft gun on its back and so symbolizes the usefulness of mules in warfare.

IT'S A FAKE KICK—AND YALE SCORES A TOUCHDOWN!

Princeton got fooled on this one. It looked as if Howard Kaye (38), Yale's kicking expert, was booting one at the crossbar in the first period of game at New Haven. But it was all a fake, and Fred Burr (52), who had pretended to hold the ball on the ground for the kick, scooped it up. Kaye has just finished swinging his foot for the "kick," while Burr spins and begins a 13-yard dash (broken line) for Yale's only score. Harold Whitman (14), Yale back, ran interference. In spite of Yale's ruse, Princeton won 13-7.

Maroon Gridders Work Hard for Newburgh Game At Stadium on Nov. 23

With only three more practices left on the training schedule for the 1939 campaign, the Kingston High School football team worked out today at the Athletic stadium with one thing in mind—of trimming Newburgh on Friday at the municipal stadium.

Although not the strongest back eleven to come out of Hilly City the Eldermen will have plenty of trouble in the line roster. In the backfield Goldbacks have Frankie, Ron and "Rip" Fornal, two clever players who can really burn up paths. "Bunny" McCormack, Walt Brown make up the rest of the secondary. Last year in howling snowstorm at Newburgh it was Ronsini who sparked the Eldermen to a 6 to 0 victory over the Maroon and White gridders in the past years the records in this Turkey Day clash will be overlooked. Both elevens are expected to be evenly matched. However, the men of Elder seem to be favored to win. But it's another story.

Kingston's main hope may be on the sidelines when the game gets underway Thursday afternoon at the stadium. Jack Fallon, the team pilot, is still nursing an injury. The ace passer of the Maroon is vitally needed if Kingston expects to cope with the Newburgh passing and running attacks.

The Maroon's in and out forward wall will be intact for the game. It looks like Ken Hopper, Brauer, Mazzucca, Darling, Worth, Nock and Frank Tucker high, but this may be changed game time. If this game is anything like the past, Kingston probably use a lot of other players on the line too.

To cope with this line Newburgh will use Balhew, Bill Lawrence, Quinn, Manuche, Van Buren, Britt and Polite. A few weeks ago the first real Newburgh setback was handed to the Eldermen when Bob Petrillo was announced as the starter for the season due to an injury. Petrillo, an end, was expected to carry the brunt on the left side of the forward wall.

Preparations are still under way to make the Wednesday night game one of the biggest of the season. A bon-fire and a parade will be held to touch off the fireworks which will surely come on Thursday. As announced before, the parade will leave the high school at 7 o'clock and end up at the stadium. There a bonfire and speeches will take the spotlight.

Yellow Jacket Game Is Called, Meeting Tonight

Because the management of the Americans of Poughkeepsie didn't round up enough players to oppose the Yellow Jackets Sunday afternoon, the game at the municipal stadium was cancelled. We were sorry about disappointing the customers who turn out for the game," said Coach Beany of the Y.J.s, "but the game was unworkable. Poughkeepsie 'phoned at 12 noon about lack of players."

Coach Beany has called a meeting of the Y.J.s for this evening. Nick Kaslich of the Billard Academy discussed about next Sunday's game with the Port Jervis Trojans at the stadium.

Tickets purchased for football games which were advertised as being for yesterday's game, may have their next Sunday.

Ambers Fight Is 12th Title Risk for Henry Armstrong

When Henry Armstrong meets Lou Ambers in defense of his welterweight title at Madison Square Garden on December 1, it will mark an even dozen times that he has placed a crown at stake since the start of the year 1939.

Ten times this year he has risked his welterweight laurels. The Ambers fight will be the eleventh. Once he put his world lightweight crown on the line and Ambers snatched it from him. That took place at the Yankee Stadium last August.

Armstrong began his '39 campaign in Los Angeles, where he turned back the title bid of Baby Arizmendi on a 10-round decision. That victory put him one ahead of Arizmendi in their series of meetings. Arizmendi defeated Armstrong in 1933 and again in 1934. In 1936, before Henry had acquired his various titles, he defeated Arizmendi, repeated in 1938 and again this year.

On March 4, Armstrong traveled to Havana, Cuba, where he put the crusher on Bobby Pacho in four rounds. Less than two weeks later he was in St. Louis, once his home town, where he halted Lew Feldman in one heat. York where, at the Garden, he turned in another masterful punching exhibition, thwarting the title hopes of Davey Day, of Chicago. He knocked out Day in 12 rounds.

Then came a trip across the Atlantic to England. On May 25 in London he vanquished Ernie Roderick in 15 rounds. Armstrong won in impressive fashion but in doing so aggravated a hand injury suffered in whipping Day. That necessitated the postponement of his lightweight title defense against Ambers until August 22. On that occasion, Armstrong's string of 46 consecutive victories came to an end and Homelide Hank was shorn of his 135-pound laurels.

During the month of October, Armstrong knocked out Al Manfredi in four rounds at St. Paul, Minn.; Howard Scott in two rounds at Minneapolis; Ritchie Fontaine in three rounds at Seattle; outpointed Jimmy Garrison in 10 rounds at Los Angeles and, in his last start, at Denver, finished Bobby Pacho again in four.

Don Lash Takes 6th Straight Title

Newark, N. J., Nov. 20 (AP)—A. A. U. officials went about a time-worn task today—entering a familiar name as winner in the national senior cross country championship.

To the surprise of absolutely nobody who had seen the entry list, an Indiana state policeman named Don Lash was the first man to finish the 10,000 meter grind around Branch Brook Park yesterday.

America's great distance runner, who incidentally hadn't appeared in competition since June, captured the title for the sixth straight year.

He smashed his 1936 record by 11 seconds, being timed in 32 minutes and 26 seconds for the 6.44 miles.

The starter's gun was the signal for Lash to run away from the pack. None of the field of 50 got a look at his face until after the race.

Gregory Rice of South Bend, Ind., former Notre Dame star, came in second, 20 yards behind. Joseph McCluskey, Manchester, Conn., was third; Jim Rafferty of the New York A. C. was fourth and Ernest Federoff of the Millrose A. A. fifth.

The Millrose Club retained its title with 35 points, two better than the New York A. C. The Shanahan Catholic Club of Philadelphia and the Norfolk Y. M. C. of Roxbury, Mass., were tied for third with 69 points.

Dartball Meeting
Members of the Fair Street dart ball club are requested to meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when the club meets the league leading Clinton Avenue team at Clinton Avenue church. All former players are urged to come out for the game.

The Washington monument was under construction 36 years, owing to shortages of funds.

Fuller Musher Champions

Last week, at the annual banquet of the Fuller softball team, the Shirtmakers received their championship for winning the Open Division pennant in the City League. The dinner was held in the cafeteria of the factory on Pine Grove avenue where the athletes lined up and displayed the various trophies won in competition over the past several years. In the picture are (seated left to right): Frank Hornbeck, Herbert Wolff, Frank Brooks, Robert Fatum and Walter Demski; (standing): Edwin Zeller, Earl Newell, Edwin Bock, Edward Marks, John Snyder, Spencer Myers and Allan Styles.

Football Roundup Among Colleges

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, Nov. 20 (AP)—Any college football team that can get this far in the season and still hang onto its ideas about winning a championship, or taking a nice trip to some bowl for the year-end holidays, generally is very stubborn about giving up such thoughts.

Oklahoma's Sooners, intent upon showing Missouri's Paul Christman he couldn't pass sitting down, forgot Ronnie King could stand up and kick. As a result, they suffered their first defeat, 7-6, at Missouri's hands Saturday and a similar loss in national prestige. King's kicking put them in the hole; a blocked kick produced the Tiger touchdown.

A blocked kick, plus a hard-charging line and a superb pass defense, enabled once-beaten Duke to eliminate North Carolina from the unbeaten ranks, 13-3, and take the lead in the Southern Conference race.

Situation Unsettled
Otherwise, the national gridiron situation remains much the same as a week ago and shows signs of working toward a final decision only in a few scattered sections this week.

The first of this year's two Thanksgiving Days, November 23, doesn't cut much ice in this week's doings, but the Big Ten and Big Six titles come up for final settlement Saturday.

East: Cornell's 35-6 rout of a good Dartmouth team convinced the few remaining doubters the big Red team is the east's class. Cornell winds up the season Saturday against its traditional rival, Pennsylvania, which gave Michigan State quite a tussle before going down, 19-17. It isn't hard to pick Cornell the "Ivy League" champion.

Duquesne, idle last Saturday, faces Carnegie Tech, which took a 21-0 drubbing from Holy Cross. Georgetown, once tied, wound up its second straight unbeaten season with a 14-0 win over New York University and has some sort of a title claim.

Boston College, 19-0 winner over Boston U. and rival of Holy Cross for the "Poison Ivy" group's top ranking, takes on Kansas State in preparation for its December 2 tussle with the Crusaders.

Tigers Do It
Princeton's Tigers took the "Big Three" crown by beating Yale, 13-7, and encounter Navy next. Yale and Harvard clash in their traditionally "big" game, in which all past records are forgotten.

Penn State, which tied Army, 14-14, and Pittsburgh, beaten 14-13 by Nebraska, meet in another important contest, as do Columbia and Colgate, shut out 25-0 by Tulane and 7-0 by Syracuse, respectively.

South: Duke figures to retain its Southern Conference lead as it follows a cerebral hemorrhage. He is professor emeritus of physical education at the University of Kansas.

He devised basketball many years ago while an instructor at the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. training school, now Springfield College.

Tough Year for Champions
Chicago, R. F. Bensinger (left), president of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., reminds Champions Ned Day (center) and Jimmy Danek that they must outbow 15,000,000 kelpers this year to retain their titles.

Wisconsin Farm Family Likes Snakes for Pets

If you're looking for unusual pets, David Jennings of Rio, Wis., suggests snakes.

All the Jenningses are snake fanciers, and on their farm each has his immaculate screened cages where he keeps his pets.

Snakes, declared Jennings, are the most misunderstood creatures on earth.

The hobby started when David's younger brother Norman and his sister Wealthy heard a high school lecture on reptiles.

They set out to collect as many types as they could find and soon had such species as the fox snake, glass snake, the common garter snake, and even a five-foot king snake imported from Missouri.

David lists the fox snake, erroneously called the "spotted adder," and "copperhead" as the most valuable of the species in this vicinity.

He explained: "The United States department of agriculture estimates that the fox snake is worth $50 a season to the farmer on whose land it lives, for the gophers and mice the reptile kills."

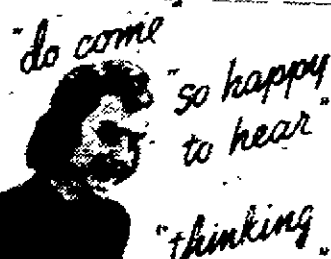

"But they are becoming extinct because people who don't understand snakes are killing them."

In Geneva the old city jail again will become a place for safe-keeping. A savings and loan association purchased the building, and announced tentative plans to convert it into a fireproof vault.

Americans spend more than $50,000,000 a year for chewing gum. $78,000,000 a year for doughnuts.

Art of Letter Writing
Is Easily Learned

Charming letters, you'll find, are full of friendly expressions, little touches—but all these tricks you can easily learn.

To make your invitations sound more cordial, spontaneous, just let change that stiff "hope you'll attend" to "do come!"

Do you write a trite "congratulations" to the fellow club-member who's won a fine job? Write instead "I am so happy to hear—and sound natural, sincere!"

And how much more flattering are your letters to friends if you don't harp always on "me, myself and mine"—but write "I'm thinking of you" and "tell me about yourself."

Knowing correct forms too helps you make a pleasing impression. Stationery of white or a very pale tint is always in good taste. Address a widow as Mrs. Henry Jones, not Mrs. Mary Jones.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING MADE EASY to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of book-

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personalities of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

When the wedding was postponed Dear Mrs. Post: My wedding was postponed on account of illness. The engraved invitations had already been mailed but we had cards printed announcing the postponement. It is almost six months since then and I'm going to be married next month. Must we now go to the expense of re-ordering engraved invitations? And Mrs. Post, another difficulty is that instead of carrying out our original plans, we now can have only a small wedding and have just the families and a few of our best friends. What I really want to ask is how we can leave out the many people on the first list without hurting their feelings.

Answer: In answer to the first part of your letter, since you must now cut down on the list, you either write to or tell the few to be invited when and where the wedding is to be. Since you are being married quietly, no one of your less intimate friends can possibly feel hurt. In fact, they will know that were you having a larger wedding, as you had first intended, they would have been invited.

The Duties of a Sexton and the Head Usher

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) At a church wedding, what is expected of the sexton? (b) And will you also tell me what are the duties of the head usher?

Answer: (a) The sexton is "in charge" at the church. He sees that everything is in order, hands the boutonnières to the ushers, and—although this is the duty of the best man—sometimes carries the groom's hat and stick from the vestry to the front entrance.

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD

Message throat, chest, and back with plenty of Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with a warm cloth.

VapoRub's double action brings double relief. It acts as a poultice to penetrate the surface skin; and its soothing medicinal vapors are breathed direct to the irritated air passages.

Try it, to loosen phlegm—to clear air passages—check tendency to cough—and also to relieve the tightness and soreness of chest muscles.

Asking for a Wedding Invitation Dear Mrs. Post: I have received a card to a wedding reception, and my son has also received one. Would it be proper for me to ask for one for my son's fiancée?

Answer: If the engagement has been announced, or is to be announced by the time of the wedding, then his fiancée should be invited—and it would be entirely proper to ask if you may bring your future daughter-in-law with you. Otherwise—unless you are a very intimate friend—the propriety of asking for an invitation is questionable.

Woman Celebrates Return to Health With Gay Banquet

A year ago Mme. Emile Jordan came to Kingston a helpless cripple, unable to use either her arms or her legs.

Sunday she was the gay hostess at a banquet party held at the Hotel Eichler at which she presided and danced with her husband amid the toasts of some four score guests who had assembled to pay tribute to her recovery.

The banquet party was arranged by her father, M. Gaston Burlet, who operates the La Bonne Soupe on West 55th street in New York city. The party also marked the first anniversary of Mr. Jordan taking possession of the Hotel Eichler.

M. Burlet who presided at toastmaster at the elaborate banquet attributed his daughter's recovery to the pure Catskill Mountain air. He said that when she was taken ill with a strange malady some years ago she was kept to her bed, unable to walk. He had friends who were in the custom of visiting Kingston and the Catskills and they spoke so highly of the atmosphere here that as a last resort he induced her husband and his daughter to locate in Kingston.

Four-Score Invitations
So happy was M. Burlet over the recovery of his daughter that he decided to celebrate the event appropriately and invited four-score of her French-American friends in New York and New Jersey to set aside Sunday in her honor.

Her friends began arriving at noon in private car and by chartered bus and shortly after 2 o'clock that afternoon they assembled around the banquet tables in the main dining room of the hotel which were decorated for the occasion.

Amid the hearty toasts of her many friends Mme. Jordan presided over the banquet. Seated with her at the table of honor was her husband, her father, who presided, Mayor and Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman and President Harry B. Walker of the Central Business Men's Association, and his wife. Between the courses the gay hostess danced with her husband.

Mayor Heiselman as he was introduced to the diners was given a rising vote of welcome. The mayor spoke briefly and outlined the history of this old Colonial town, and said that he was always glad to welcome strangers to Kingston, and trusted that they would return again and soon. He complimented Mme. Jordan on her restoration to health.

Later during the banquet the mayor at the earnest request of M. Burlet spoke briefly in French, which he said he had picked up during his service in France during the World War. He closed his remarks with "Vive France, Vive L'Amerique."

The menu, many of the dishes prepared for the occasion by the hostess, was:

Three Are Hurt As Tire Bursts

Leo Fogarty of 28 Abbey street sustained a fractured arm and Miss Elizabeth Smith of 122 Ten TenBroeck avenue a broken leg, while Miss Natalie Fuller of 55 Lafayette avenue escaped with minor cuts and bruises when they were involved in an automobile accident early Sunday morning.

The accident happened on the Highland road, near Clintondale, when the bursting of a rear tire caused the car driven by Fogarty to go into the ditch.

Fogarty and Miss Smith were taken to the Kingston Hospital. Mr. Fogarty was to leave for home today. Miss Smith, whose condition is reported as good, will remain for further treatment. Three other occupants of the car reported no injuries.
